Vinyl-Cutting Signmakers for Macintosh

========================================================================

This article last reviewed: 12 December 1990

TOPIC ------------------------------------------------------------

Is there such a thing as a vinyl-cutting signmaker for the Macintosh?

DISCUSSION -------------------------------------------------------

We have two sources for you.  The Roland Digital Group makes a machine that does precisely what you want.

Also, Mesac's "Epsi" product drives various vinyl cutters.  Epsi converts PostScript to commands that cutters understand.  Search the Technical Info library (under "Roland" or "Mesac" for contact information on these two companies.
