TOPIC -------------------------------------------------------------

Is there any way to get AppleShare Installer with System 6.0.5?  Can I just make a set of disks with System 6.0.5?

DISCUSSION --------------------------------------------------------

It's not possible to upgrade the AppleShare Installer to System 6.0.5; disastrous things could happen if you tried the upgrade and then attempted an installation.  The AppleShare Admin disk can be upgraded to System 6.0.5, as the application itself doesn't depend on the system version.

If you need to install AppleShare software onto a computer that requires a higher version of the System than 6.0.3 (like a Macintosh IIci or Macintosh IIfx), then you need to use the Network Products Installer Diskette to install the software.  This disk is shipped with the computer (not the operating system) and can be found in the "Read Me First" booklet, which is inside the "Open Me First" box.
