

Tech Info Library

Macintosh 16 Color Display: Compatibility and Bit Depth Info

Revised: 5/5/92
Security: Everyone

Macintosh 16" Color Display: Compatibility and Bit Depth Info

=====

Article Created: 27 January 1992
Article Last Reviewed: 5 May 1992
Article Last Updated: 5 May 1992

TOPIC -----

This article provides compatibility and bit depth information for the Macintosh 16" Color Display when used with Macintosh computers and Apple's video cards.

DISCUSSION -----

Model	Card	Bit Depth
-----	----	-----
Macintosh IIfx	On-board Video	Not Compatible
Macintosh IIfx	On-board Video	Not Compatible
Macintosh LC	On-board Video	Not Compatible
Macintosh II Series	Macintosh II Video Card	Not Compatible
Macintosh II Series	Macintosh II Hi-Res Video Card	Not Compatible
Macintosh II Series	Macintosh Display Card 4•8	8-bitD
Macintosh II Series	Macintosh Display Card 8•24	8-bitD
Macintosh II Series	Macintosh Display Card 8•24 GC	8-bit*
Macintosh II Series	Macintosh Display Card 8•24 GC (Rev B)	8-bit/16-bit

D The original Macintosh Display Card 8•24 and Macintosh Display Card 4•8 require a ROM upgrade kit (service part #076-0548). The new ROM (part #341-0868) provides support for the Macintosh 16" Color Display.

 The original Macintosh Display Card 8•24 GC requires a ROM upgrade kit (service part #076-1019). The new ROM (part #341-0266) provides support for the Macintosh 16" Color Display.

Note: All current Finished Goods for the Macintosh Display Card 8•24 and Macintosh Display Card 8•24 GC are shipping with Macintosh 16" Color Display support (new ROMs).

Macintosh Quadra Series

Model	Bit Depth
-----	-----
Macintosh Quadra 700	8-bit/32-bit
Macintosh Quadra 900	8-bit/32-bit

 The 32-bit support includes 24-bit support (16.7M colors) as well as an 8-bit alpha channel.

Copyright 1992, Apple Computer, Inc.

Tech Info Library Article Number:9736