Tech Info Library

StyleWriter and StyleWriter II: Differences

```
Revised:        1/13/93
Security:       Everyone

StyleWriter and StyleWriter II: Differences

======================================================================

Article Created: 6 January 1993

TOPIC -------------------------------------------------------------

What are the differences between a StyleWriter and a StyleWriter II?

DISCUSSION --------------------------------------------------------

Here are the primary differences between the StyleWriter and StyleWriter II printers (the original StyleWriter cannot be upgraded to a StyleWriter II):

                          StyleWriter              StyleWriter II
                          -----------              --------------
Memory                    64K                      128K

Speed:
• Best Mode               1/2 page per minute      Up to 1 page/minute
• Faster/Draft Mode       Up to 1 page/minute      Up to 2 pages/minute

Print Quality:
• Best Mode               360 dpi (dots per inch)  360 dpi
• Faster/Draft Mode       180 dpi (dots per inch)  180 dpi

Grayscale Printing        No                       Over 130 grayscales with GrayShare software

Paper Capacity            50 sheets                100 sheets, 15 envelopes

Printer Sharing           No                       Yes, with GrayShare software

Construction              Separate sheet feeder    Sheet feeder and print and print mechanism      mechanism in one unit
```

Tech Info Library Article Number:11229