Tech Info Library

AOCE Templates (8/94)

```
Revised:        8/23/94
Security:       Everyone
```

AOCE Templates (8/94)

===

Article Created: 4 October 1993
Article Reviewed/Updated: 23 August 1994

TOPIC ---

This article describes AOCE Templates of Apple Open Collaborative Environment (AOCE).

DISCUSSION --

AOCE templates are system extensions that control how information in a catalog record is displayed on the screen. AOCE templates are common to all types of catalog services including catalogs on PowerShare Catalog Servers and those accessed through Catalog Service Access Modules.

There are times when it is neither desirable or appropriate to display all of the data resident in a catalog. An AOCE template can be written to display only the desired information and to display it in the appropriate manner.

```
  Catalog Record                    AOCE Template
  ----------------                  -------------
  Employee Name      text  \
  Employee Number    number |       ----------------------------
  Office Location    text   |       |                 --------- |
  Department         text   |       | Name            |       | |
  Work Phone         text   |---->| Office Location | Picture | |
  Home Phone         text   |       | Work Phone      |       | |
  Home Address       text   |       |                 --------- |
  Picture            image  |       ----------------------------
  Next of Kin        text   /

            Mapping attributes to AOCE template
```

Templates can have multiple pages of information, or they can be of any size or format necessary to best display information on that catalog record.

Installing AOCE Templates
   AOCE template files are system extensions. To install a new AOCE template, drop the template file into the System Folder and reboot.

Where do AOCE templates come from?
   AOCE Templates are created by developers.

Article Change History:
23 Aug 1994 - Review for accuracy

Support Information Services

Copyright 1993-94, Apple Computer, Inc.

Tech Info Library Article Number:13527