

Tech Info Library

System 7.5, Adjustable Keyboard, and Key Caps (1/95)

Revised: 1/31/95
Security: Everyone

System 7.5, Adjustable Keyboard, and Key Caps (1/95)

=====

Article Created: 31 January 1995

TOPIC -----

Using Key Caps in System 7.5 with an Adjustable Keyboard, I only see the keypad, not the keyboard. Does the original software for this keyboard need to be installed?

DISCUSSION -----

No, the software for the Adjustable Keyboard was included in the System Update 3.0, which in turn is in System 7.5. The Installer for the Adjustable Keyboard software will put up a warning dialog box indicating that newer software already exists. The solution is to press a key on the keyboard and Key Caps will switch its display to it. In other words, if Key Caps brings up the keypad, press a key on the keyboard and it will then display it, and vice versa.

Support Information Services

Copyright 1995, Apple Computer, Inc.

Tech Info Library Article Number:17093